

The Dismantling of the EPA

Donald Trump, in his appointment of Myron Ebell to head the EPA transition, has signaled his intention to try to end the world. Climate Change will happen whether Trump believes it or not.

How is it that someone can have faith in God but discount science to such an extent that it will have to be an act of that being to save us from ourselves. We know science exists. If most of us are wrong about God, we fucked.

I remember when I was in Catholic school, being told that I should have faith in God because, if one was wrong about disbelieving, eternal damnation awaited. It is better to be safe and practice the teachings than sorry.

Mr. Trump, take that to heart! Please! You're destroying us all.
